

Clark County Virtual Fall Educator Training

Join us for a virtual professional learning experience crafted to support Clark County Green Team Leaders!

Washington Green Schools is here to support schools in reaching their sustainability goals, no matter the situation. We have put together some exciting new ways to engage with your students, including At-Home Certification, in the virtual learning environment. We will kick off the new school year with the annual Clark County Virtual Fall Educator Training where you will build a foundation for sustainability with your Green Team.

- Learn about the new At-Home Certification category
- Explore new resources, including the At-Home Certification Kit and Carbon Calculator Tool, which measures the savings associated with environmental action projects
- Connect with a growing community of local Green Team Leaders and partners

Thursday, October 29 | 4-6 p.m.

To learn more & register visit
<http://bit.ly/fall-clark>

A total of up to 6 free STEM clock hours will be provided courtesy of WGS. These hours will be given for 1 hour of preparation for the training, 2 hours during the live training, and 3 hours of optional project implementation work.

Questions? Contact Becky Bronstein at becky@wagreenschools.org